

5 If Someone Grabs You:

- SCREAM!!!
- Break free and run.
- Run to the nearest house or business place.
- Tell them what happened.
- Call your parents or police.
- Try to remember the description of the person who bothered you.

A MESSAGE to parents and kids

We in the General Assembly who make the laws feel education is an important tool in fighting crime. Crime prevention is not solely a police responsibility.

We are especially concerned with protection of youngsters because you are so often the victim of accidents and criminal attacks. In order to protect you, law enforcement officers need your help and cooperation. You, the potential victim, play the most crucial role in crime prevention. By following a few simple rules, you can avoid most injuries and dangers.

The suggestions contained in this brochure are based upon the experiences of victims in cases investigated by the Pennsylvania State Police. If practiced, they will greatly reduce your chances of becoming the victim of an accident or attack.
